The extreme linear design and construction of this home required precision installation techniques of the selected flooring material, Claire limestone. A perfectly plum line centered upon descending windows at a hall's end facilitated the flow between flooring and the hard lines of the home. The limestone was also used for the living room steps, risers, and pony walls, and in the master bath. The European-style shower area was created with towel niches, freestanding bench seats, and a properly sloped drainage area.

JUDGES' COMMENTS:

"Very nice color blending"... "A refined, modernist interior complementing a curvilinear bathtub."
